

Les Dames d'Escoffier

The San Francisco and Sacramento chapters invite you to tour, talk, and shop Friday, April 1, 2016

According to the New York Times this January, “Handmade ceramics are white hot, perhaps as an antidote to rapid advances in technology. The giant of the new ceramics movement is Heath Ceramics in Sausalito, Calif., which to the world of clay is what Stumptown is to coffee. Heath, which was founded in 1948 to produce midcentury modern housewares, is now a globally known outfit with 200 employees that sells about $20 million in products a year. This past October, it received a National Design Award from the Cooper Hewitt, Smithsonian Design Museum.”

Senior product designer Ada Ko has invited us to tour the working factory and listen to her fascinating talk on table form, function and aesthetic. Heath tableware is a fixture at Dame Alice Water’s Chez Panisse.

The event begins at 11am. There is plenty of parking adjacent to the factory, located at 400 Gate Five Road, Sausalito. Heath is pleased to extend a 20 percent discount to us as a one-time-only professional courtesy.

Cost for the program is $10 for Les Dames members and $15 per person for guests to benefit the San Francisco LDEI chapter’s charitable works. We’re limited to 30 attendees, so a prompt RSVP is advised. Click Here to Register

The critically acclaimed FISH casual eatery is walking distance away.

Questions? Karen MacKenzie

mackenzie@mackenzieagency.com

RSVP: lesdamessf@gmail.com